Rotary District Conference Will Open In Escanaba Today

PLEA TO END
HATE VOICED
BY PRESIDENTNATIONS HAVE ONE
DEFENSE AGAINST
ATOMIC BOMB

BY LOUGLAS B. CORNELL
New York, May 11 (AP)—President Truman declared today that until the world learns the science of human relationships "the atomic bomb will remain a frightful weapon which threatens to destroy all of us."

Speaking before a crowd which overflowed 10,000 seats on the campus of Fordham university, celebrating the 100th anniversary of its charter, the president declared:

"It is up to education to bring about that deeper international understanding which is so vital to world peace."

Crowd of 400,000
Mr. Truman, whose address was broadcast over all networks, said there was at least one defense against the atomic bomb.

"That defense lies in our mastering this science of human relationships all over the world," he said. "It is the defense of tolerance and of understanding, of intelligence and of thoughtfulness."

The president and his party landed at LaGuardia Field at 4:48 p. m. (EST) in his C-54 "The Sacred Cow," and drove to the Fordham campus immediately.

Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallender estimated that 40,000 persons hailed the president, some waving, others shouting "Harry," as the motor caravan rolled swiftly through blocked-off streets.

The president—who studied law in Kansas City in the early 1920's—donned a gold-embroidered cap and a purple-banded gown to receive Fordham's honorary degree as doctor of law.

Cloudy skies which had threatened to chase the ceremony indoors cleared after noon and the day was comfortably warm when the president began his address at 4 p. m. (EST).

"Education faces the greatest challenge in its history," the president said, in preparing veterans and other young men and women "to live in the new atomic age."

"Intelligent men do not hate other men just because their religion may be different, because their habits and language may be different, or because their national origin or color may be different," he said.

Prime Victory Bell
The president who made a flying trip from the capital and returned at nightfall, earlier clanged the clapper of Fordham's victory bell in a dedicatory gesture honoring 216 alumni who died in World War II.

The bell is a war prize from the Japanese carrier Junyo, sunk by American planes off Saipan, and will be used to signal the Rams' athletic victories.

Others on the program were Francis Cardinal Spellman, the Rev. Robert I. Gannon, university president, and Bernard Cardinal Griffin of Westminster, who also received an honorary degree.

TRAIN KILLS MOTORIST

Detroit, May 12 (AP)—James Clapp, 48, was killed today when his automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train a short distance from his home. His wife, Rosa, 48, was injured.

Court Convicts 61
For Atrocities In Nazi Murder Mill

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

Dachau, Germany, May 11 (AP)—A U. S. military court today convicted all 61 defendants of killing and torturing thousands of prisoners in the Mauthausen concentration camp murder mill and set Monday for sentencing.

The trial was the largest yet of all mass war crimes trials. The defendants, mostly members of the German SS, were responsible for 70,000 deaths at the camp and "the clock would be turned back 1,000 years if the court condoned these atrocities," the prosecutor, Lt. Col. William Denson, declared in his summation.

The court deliberated one hour after a trial lasting six weeks. Many former prisoners testified about the murder of inmates by gassing, shooting, starvation and torture. Some prisoners were thrown into the crematory while still living, one witness said.

THANK HER for Mothers

Day—Anne Jarvis, above, of Grafton, W. Va., is considered the founder of Mother's Day. After her mother's death in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1905, Miss Jarvis suggested a special church service for mothers, to be held in the church she had attended since childhood—the Andrews Methodist of Grafton, shown at right. This was done in 1907. Next year the first public Mother's Day services were held there and, simultaneously, in Philadelphia. In 1910, Gov. William Glasscock of West Virginia proclaimed an official Mother's Day and the idea spread rapidly throughout the nation. Four years later it was proclaimed a national holiday, with a congressional resolution approved by President Wilson. The photograph shows Miss Jarvis as a young woman. Now 82, and completely blind, she is spending her declining years in a West Chester, Pa., sanitarium. (NEA Photos.)

Worker Admits Fatal Beating Of Wife And Child; Bodies Buried

BY CHARLES E. MARENTETTE

Grant, Mich., May 11 (AP)—A 35-year-old foundry worker readily admitted today to beating his wife and four-year-old stepdaughter to death April 19 and burying their bodies in a lonely, moonlit grave near here.

Charles Gilbert, a resident of a Muskegon Heights, Mich., trailer camp, told Prosecutor J. Donald Murphy of Newaygo county, that the double-slaying climaxed an argument with his wife, Gladys, 26, over her alleged mistreatment of their children.

He killed Karen Greenwald, her daughter by a former marriage, because "she could have told what I'd done," he said.

In a statement transcribed by a stenographer for his signature, Gilbert told of calmly pausing at a tavern after the crime, and, in the weeks that followed, of cour-ing and planning to marry a Muskegon woman.

However, his statement read, he believed the crime would be discovered eventually and seriously thought of disinterring the bodies and removing an incriminating golden locket from his wife's neck.

The slightly-built bewhiskered Gilbert was arrested at his trailer today, nearly 24 hours after the two bodies were found in drifting sand atop an abandoned well along M-213 near here.

Gilbert said his wife's daughter Karen was from her former marriage to a man now serving a sentence in the state prison of southern Michigan.

During their marriage, he went on, he had two children, Judy Ann, 2, and Margaret Kay, 13 months.

When he returned from work April 18, Gilbert's statement continued, he found the baby beaten black and blue by Mrs. Gilbert.

This angered him, he said, and he remonstrated with her for this and for her previous abuse of all the children, including Karen.

The following day, at his work, Gilbert said "I planned to do just what I did."

"You mean to kill your wife and her daughter?" Murphy asked.

"Yes," he replied.

The evening of April 19, he said, he took the family for a ride in the car, stopping at a lonely spot on M-213 near a cabin he had once lived in. He raised the hood of the car and asked his wife to hand him a flashlight.

As she left the car, Gilbert said he struck her with a crank handle. She fell noiselessly to the ground.

"I struck her twice more to make certain she was dead," his statement continued.

Karen, in the front seat, began to cry and asked:

"Did you hit Mommy?"

Gilbert's statement continued: "I picked Karen up and made her stand on the ground. She was crying. I hit her on the back of the head. She fell face down. I hit her again."

"What motive did you have

LOCAL ROTARY CLUB IS HOST
TO CONVENTIONOVER 500 PERSONS
COMING HERE FOR
2-DAY SESSION

The first postwar 143rd district conference of Rotary International will open in Escanaba this morning, and more than 500 delegates and their wives are expected to register for the two-day session which includes important business meetings, discussions, banquets, and speakers of national reputation.

The conference at Escanaba had been scheduled for last year, but was cancelled because of a shortage of transportation facilities during wartime.

Rotarians, Rotary Anns, and members of Uthorot will come to Escanaba as delegates from the 48 clubs in the district which includes Northern Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. Special features have been arranged for each of the three groups, although all will join in a meeting to be held tonight at Wm. Oliver Memorial auditorium in Junior high school, and at a banquet at St. Joseph's church tomorrow night.

Registration opens at 10 o'clock this morning at the Delta hotel. The hotel and the Chamber of Commerce office are conference headquarters. For late-comers an additional registration period will be held Monday morning.

Final arrangements for the conference sessions were made at a meeting yesterday noon at the Delta hotel, attended by John P. Reilly, Uthorot, Calif., representative of Rotary International, and Francis E. Taylor, Merrill, Wis., governor of the 143rd district.

Reilly is a director of Rotary International, which includes 5,759 clubs with a membership of 271,000 in a world-wide organization.

The conference officers are Taylor, the district governor; Carl G. Nelson of Escanaba, who is chairman of the conference executive committee; Charles E. Lewis of Uthorot, and William H. Uthorot of Marshallfield, Frank Aley of Munising, and Ernest Brown of Iron Mountain. Escanaba as the host club has had the assistance of the Gladstone Rotary club in arrangements for the conference.

The conference program includes business sessions, discussion groups, luncheons, banquets and a governor's ball. Special entertainment for the visiting ladies has been arranged by a committee of Rotary Anns from the Escanaba club.

About 80 youths, all boys of outstanding ability from high schools in the district, will attend a Uthorot conference today and from curtailments caused by the coal strike.

The barley order took effect on March 1, and its results are now plain at every hand in voluntary rationing and decreased home consumption.

Based on 1945 production of 4,052,670 barrels of beer, Michigan's tax loss will approximate $2,000,000. Michigan's per capita consumption was 28 gallons a year.

Best authorities say there's no hope for alleviating this partial drought before next January at the soonest. The brewers themselves, though disagreeing with the wisdom of Washington's order, are going to cooperate.

The cut in barley consumption by breweries was ordered in the United States' program in the drive against postwar world famine.

President Willard E. King of the Michigan Brewers Association indicated his sympathy was deep for the beer drinker, especially with warm weather coming on.

"You'll drink one bottle where you used to drink three," he said in estimating the effect on the elbow-bender.

But he said the brewers had no intention of fighting the government's order.

"Perhaps this was a hasty action on the part of the government," he said, "but we're willing to go all the way with it."

"If one barrel of beer can feed one infant for one day, we're in favor of cutting it out. After all, this industry depends on good will."

Objections to the government's order are based on grounds that human consumption of barley is negligible. The industry takes that stand, too, said King, but won't make an issue of it.

Tavern interests and organized brewery workers, who face the loss of 1,000 jobs in Michigan, have expressed opposition to the new ruling.

Effects of the order may be extensive. In addition to outright job losses, some national breweries are reported contemplating a reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 24.

That would be entirely aside

Queen Of Jubilee

Detroit, May 12 (AP)—Dark-eyed Mary Grace Simescu, 22, daughter of Romanian-born parents, was named today as queen of the golden jubilee to preside over the celebration marking the 50th anniversary of the birth of the automobile industry. The jubilee is scheduled for May 29 through June 9.

Miss Simescu did not enter the race for queen herself, but was entered secretly by two friends at the Nash-Kelvinator Corporation, where she is a secretary in the advertising production department.

One of four children, Miss Simescu was selected in 1941 by a Detroit newspaper columnist as the typical American girl. She is an ardent sports enthusiast, but describes herself as "disgustingly domestic."

The jubilee queen is five feet three and a half, weighs 115 pounds, and has brown hair and deep brown eyes.

Beer Drinker Gets One Bottle Instead Of Two;
Use Of Barley Limited

BY FELIX B. WOLD

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—The beer drinker now must limit himself to one bottle where three went down before.

This lamentable condition asserts itself because of the government's restriction on the use of barley by breweries—a 30 per cent cut, which followed a previous 20 per cent reduction.

Best authorities say there's no hope for alleviating this partial drought before next January at the soonest. The brewers themselves, though disagreeing with the wisdom of Washington's order, are going to cooperate.

COAL MINERS
RETURNING TO WORK MONDAYSTRIKE SETTLEMENT
STILL BLOCKED BY LEWIS' DEMANDS

Rail freight embargo lifted. Passenger curb and power "brownouts" continue. Strike negotiators fail to report progress.

Most miners agree to "true" reopening, miners ballot. Other industry still hampered but hopeful.

BY HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, May 11 (AP)—The government today ordered the railroad freight embargo lifted on Monday but slapped controls on the entire soft coal output expected during the strike "truce."

The action covers "captive" mines as well as others and may withhold coal from industry immediately. But it provides the government with an expected 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 tons of coal for emergency users without resorting to seizure of the pits.

John L. Lewis and the mine owners met, meanwhile, in what Edward F. McGrady, federal conciliator, called "a very friendly, very cooperative atmosphere" to seek the settlement President Truman requested by Wednesday.

Back Pay Big Issue
After morning and afternoon sessions which brought no specific word of progress the conferees adjourned until 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow. The stumbling block appeared to be Lewis' demand for $3,000,000 in back holiday pay. Possibly in this connection, most of the afternoon session was devoted to a caucus of the operators. It was they who proposed the Sunday session.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, who was not among the conferees, issued a statement saying that "The coal mine owners made offers to the union leaders weeks ago that should have prevented a work stoppage, and they renewed their offers many times." He declared that Lewis' truce offer "further demonstrates his control over the nation's coal supply."

On the political front, Senator Mitchell (D-Wash.) reported appeals from CIO locals that the anti-poll tax bill be placed in the way of labor legislation which the senate will consider Monday. Such strategy could be expected to provoke long debate, if not a filibuster.

Factories Come Last
The order by the Solid Fuels Administration sets up priorities by which the accumulating coal will be doled out by the government. The first preference will go to utilities, railroads, laundries, hospitals and the like. Only after these needs are filled may factories get coal.

The nationwide freight embargo which took effect Thursday will end at 12:01 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) Monday. With it will go the express embargo and the ban on parcel post shipments weighing more than 11 pounds.

The 25 per cent reduction in passenger travel on coal-burning trains is being kept in force for the present. An additional 25 per cent cut slated to start Wednesday, however, was called off.

Dimouts and other state and local measures to save electric power are to be continued. The Civilian Production Administration.

Assault Captures Preakness By Neck As 42,370 Watch

BY SID FEDER
Pimlico Race Track, Baltimore, May 11 (AP)—Assault committed murder again in the Preakness today, just as he did in the Kentucky Derby last week.

The club-footed comet from Texas turned on the steam after three quarters of a mile and hustled home a neck to the good in this richest race in history.

And again he was laughing at all the rest when he hit the wire, although he had to hurry it up a bit more this time than he did a week ago.

And just as he did it before a record crowd last week at Churchill Downs—largest in turf history at more than 100,000—he strutted his stuff this time before the greatest throng ever to see a horse race in Maryland, 42,370.

No Alibis
In winning the high-priced race Assault paid $4.80, $3.10 and $2.20. Lord Boswell coming in second paid $3.10 and $2.20 while Hampden paid $2.30 to show.

There were none of the alibis for any of the others this time as there were last.

The sleek sturdy Lord Boswell was running clear all the way, and although he practically set fire to the stretch to come from next to last in the field of ten and run over the others to wind up second, he wasn't good enough to overhaul the Texas terror.

And Hampden, the Delaware dandy who was piloted this time by heavy Eddie Aracore, king of the riders, closed up to third—but third in this case was four lengths and a neck away, and Hampden was a-wearying at the finish.

Both of them did better than they did down there in the Blue Grass a week ago, but the best today still wasn't good enough as the kid from the wide-open spaces proved to be a chip off the old block once more.

For, it was just ten years ago that Assault's daddy, Bold Venture, danced home in the Derby, then repeated in the Preakness.

But while Bold Venture broke down after nailing the two jewels in the triple crown—and had to retire—there was nothing wrong with Assault after his work tonight that a good meal didn't fix up just fine.

Ahead, for the chocolate champ, lies the third gem in the crown—the Belmont—three weeks hence.

Victory there would make him the seventh horse in the book to put that crown on his brown mane.

Takes Heavy Litter
Today, in a day that saw all Maryland crowd and betting records wiped out, he was the tenth horse ever to win this Derby-and-Preakness double. And never before has any double rung up the cash register like this one.

The biggest pot of gold ever put up for a horse race was waiting at the finish line for the four who got home "triple" with the mostest—a total of $139,620 compared to the previous high of $136,220 for last winter's Santa Anita Handicap.

Of this, Assault picked up a winner's slice of $99,120, which included a $2,500 nominator's award for his owner, Robert J. Kleberg, Jr., of the million-acre King Ranch of Texas, where the Lone Star sizzler was born.

Tacked onto his $96,400 Derby pay check, this gave him $195,520 for the double, $61,720 more than Stage Hand put in the bank for his hitherto record two-race take-home pay for the Santa Anita Derby and Handicap back in '38.

All told for his two seasons of racing the filer with the deformed foot—the result of an infection as a youngster—now has $235,900 in the bank.

The record throng poured $446,140 through the mutuels on the Preakness alone, compared to the previous one-race Pimlico high of $347,343 last year.

Car Catches Fire After Crash—Four Burned To Death

Adrian, Mich., May 11 (AP)—Four youths, trapped in their blazing car, were burned to death today on US-223 near here.

Witnesses said the driver, apparently lost control of the car. It left the highway, rolled over several times, crashed into a tank car on a railroad siding and burst into flames.

Coroner Ed M. Braun identified the dead as Joe Acostas, 17, of Clayton; the driver, Ignacio Thevino, 17; Alma Converse, 17, and Davis Greenan, 16, all of Adrian. Louis Du Chene, Jr., 17, told police he was driven away from the auto by the intense heat in a rescue attempt.

Double funeral services at Adrian are planned for the boys. Arrangements are incomplete for the girls' funeral.

COAL MINERS RETURNING TO WORK MONDAY

after a conference with other government agencies, announced that these steps should go on "with full vigor until final settlement of coal negotiations and complete resumption of coal mining operations."

Must Conserve Fuel
The agency also decided to keep in force the order requiring the rationing of manufactured and mixed gas when utility coal stocks fall below three weeks' supply, and the requirement that electric companies pool their power resources as in wartime.

State utility commissions were advised it might be possible to lift "some of the more severe restrictions placed on industry's use of power in the most acute shortage areas."

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, admonished the railroads "to use every effort to continue conservation of coal."

"We have been assured by the Solid Fuels Administration of a sufficient supply of coal to meet the daily needs of the railroads upon the resumption of production in the country. It is essential, however, that in the next two weeks every effort be made to increase the reserve fuel supply of the railroads to enable them better to meet any emergency which might occur at the end of that period."

From the coal fields came reports that most of the operators are getting ready to re-open for volume production Monday. Two Pennsylvania locals of the United Mine Workers Union with 1,500 members said they would not return to work, noting that their members can begin drawing state unemployment compensation next week.

"We have been out this long and there is no reason to return to work now," said Oliver Pauley, president of the Scalp Level, Pa. local.

Some Unions Hold Out
Another veteran miner said the union's historic policy of "no contract, no work," would be followed by the miners at Covedale, Pa.

One of the two Cambria County, Pa., locals wired Lewis that he was privileged to "throw in the towel... but not for us."

"Have we been chasing a will-o'-the-wisp for the last six weeks?" asked Michael Demchak, president of St. Michaels Local 3648, and Allen Coryle, local secretary.

Nevertheless a widespread return to work is expected in other areas where agreement is reached on payment of any eventual contract increases retroactive to the date of work resumption. Local unions balloted on the proposal.

In Fayette County, Pa., President William J. Hynes of Union District 4 appealed to the miners to return, expressing the belief that within the next two weeks "a settlement will be reached."

Hynes said the miners do not understand the situation as well as Lewis and the union's policy committee, which unanimously voted to call the truce.

Chicago Dimout Ends
In West Virginia, which produces more coal than any other state, official notices of the truce still had not been received at isolated mines, but word had spread generally that work would begin Monday. Conferences were being held between the union and mine owners to work out agreement on retroactivity of any eventual pay increase.

Three major producers in Monongahela county were reported in agreement with their locals, and there were indications that most of the state's mines would be ready to resume production. At Williamson, UMW field representative Ransom Kirk reported the miners ready to return to work.

In Chicago and other Illinois areas, industry was resuming normalcy after a nine-day dimout. Electric power restrictions were removed with announcement of the coal truce.

The Illinois Commerce Commission said the dimout had saved 72,300 tons of coal, Chicago's big loss.

No Plant Closings At General Motors

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—Removal of the government's freight embargo will permit General Motors to continue with full operations and keep its 215,000 production workers on the job.

General Motors previously had said the embargo was the only obstacle to continued operation during the coal strike, in which a truce has been called.

The big automobile corporation had tentatively planned to close some plants next week.

for killing little Karen," Murphy asked.

"She could talk and could have told what I'd done," Gilbert answered.

Gilbert then told of placing the bodies in the depression atop an abandoned well and scooping about two feet of sand over them.

"We have been assured by the Solid Fuels Administration of a sufficient supply of coal to meet the daily needs of the railroads upon the resumption of production in the country. It is essential, however, that in the next two weeks every effort be made to increase the reserve fuel supply of the railroads to enable them better to meet any emergency which might occur at the end of that period."

"We have been out this long and there is no reason to return to work now," said Oliver Pauley, president of the Scalp Level, Pa. local.

Some Unions Hold Out
Another veteran miner said the union's historic policy of "no contract, no work," would be followed by the miners at Covedale, Pa.

One of the two Cambria County, Pa., locals wired Lewis that he was privileged to "throw in the towel... but not for us."

"Have we been chasing a will-o'-the-wisp for the last six weeks?" asked Michael Demchak, president of St. Michaels Local 3648, and Allen Coryle, local secretary.

Nevertheless a widespread return to work is expected in other areas where agreement is reached on payment of any eventual contract increases retroactive to the date of work resumption. Local unions balloted on the proposal.

In Fayette County, Pa., President William J. Hynes of Union District 4 appealed to the miners to return, expressing the belief that within the next two weeks "a settlement will be reached."

Hynes said the miners do not understand the situation as well as Lewis and the union's policy committee, which unanimously voted to call the truce.

Chicago Dimout Ends
In West Virginia, which produces more coal than any other state, official notices of the truce still had not been received at isolated mines, but word had spread generally that work would begin Monday. Conferences were being held between the union and mine owners to work out agreement on retroactivity of any eventual pay increase.

Three major producers in Monongahela county were reported in agreement with their locals, and there were indications that most of the state's mines would be ready to resume production. At Williamson, UMW field representative Ransom Kirk reported the miners ready to return to work.

tomorrow. They will have their own program arranged by a committee headed by Edward Edick, Escanaba Senior high school principal.

It was pointed out yesterday by the conference committee that the only conference program which the public may attend will be tonight's meeting at the Wm. Oliver auditorium in Junior high school.

Limited facilities make it necessary to reserve attendance at other functions to Rotarians and their ladies only. At tonight's public meeting Morris H. Coers of Indianapolis will speak on "Down Dead End With the Kids of America."

For the comfort of visitors, a "House of Friendship" has been established in Masonic Temple across the street from Delta hotel. There visitors will find a place of rest and relaxation between conference sessions.

Trades and Labor Council—A regular meeting of the Escanaba Trades and Labor Council will be held Tuesday evening at eight o'clock at Carpenters' hall, South Ninth street.

VFW Auxiliary—The regular business meeting of the Auxiliary of the VFW will be held Wednesday, May 15, at 8 o'clock at the Veterans hall, 1305 Ludington St. All members are urged to be present as plans for the encampment are to be made.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO DANCE HERE

Students Aid In Plans
For Wednesday Night
At City Center

Following through on a recommendation of the city recreation commission, a young peoples' dance is scheduled to be held Wednesday night, May 15, at the Escanaba recreation center, which is being redecorated for the opening of the series of parties for young people who are students of Senior high schools in the city and other people under 21 years of age.

Ivan Kobasic's orchestra will play for dancing between 7 and 10 p. m.

Intermission entertainment is being arranged and will be presented by Senior high school students. A committee of students is assisting in plans for the development of a youth center in the recreation building. The students will sell tickets, care for the snack bar, where pop, hot dogs and candy bars will be sold and will also have charge of the free check room.

Civic and fraternal organizations in the city have evinced interest in the youth center plan, and have offered their cooperation, financially and otherwise.

The recreation center building is now being redecorated and all of the rooms which will be used for the dancing party will be completed by Wednesday. In addition to the dancing facility, there will be a game room and lounge room also open.

Hurja Opens Office At Crystal Falls

Crystal Falls — A large frame dwelling in Crystal Falls, on the corner of Third street and Marquette avenue, this week became the official headquarters of Emil Hurja in his campaign for the Republican nomination for Congress from the 12th district. It is the old Hurja homestead, in which eight of the 12 children of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matt Hurja were born. Of these Emil Hurja was the second.

Mr. Hurja said that Iron county will draw his first attention, and within the next 10 days his organization will be in "full swing" in all of the eight counties in the district.

"My campaign," he said, "might produce some novel features before it is over. In too many political campaigns the candidate visits the local banker, newspaper editor, mining manager and the party politician. This is not going to be that kind of a campaign. This will be a people's campaign, and will enlist the support of the

New Air Freight Service Offered Escanaba Shippers

A new air freight service becomes available at this city on June 1, said C. A. Brannan, agent of the local Railway Express office here, according to a joint announcement by L. O. Head, president of the Railway Express Agency, and Croil Hunter, president of Northwest Airlines, which stated:

"A new type of high-speed door-to-door air freight service, at rates approximately 50 per cent below present air express rates, will be offered by Northwest Airlines and the Railway Express Agency beginning June 1, the two companies announced jointly today.

The new service, a sharp departure from present types of service available, is expected to speed up delivery of heavy goods to several thousand cities in the northern tier of states across the nation where Northwest routes are now operated. The service will be the first coordinated air and rail service in the air freight field, it was disclosed as rates for the plan were filed with Civil Aeronautics Board.

Needlework Firm May Move Plant

Iron River—A nationally known Chicago needlework firm is considering Iron River as a possible location for one of three factories to be established in a decentralization move to avoid the metropolitan labor shortage.

This was reported to the Iron River Business Men's association Tuesday by Geno Lombardi, merchant, who was approached by a representative of the manufacturer. The factory would employ 100 women at an average weekly wage of $35.

The association's industrial committee was instructed to learn what concessions would be required to bring the factory here. Lombardi promised to assist that committee in studying the possibility of locating the new industry in the city.

A building of about 15,000 square feet of floor space, equivalent to the Floyd VanWagner dance hall at Ice lake, would be required, Lombardi estimated. He added that the firm is reputable and financially sound. Business men expressed interest in obtaining further information concerning the Chicago firm's willingness to come here.

QUERIES FROM VETS

This series of questions and answers comes from the local Veterans Administration, located in the postoffice building. Veterans may obtain detailed information regarding the problems touched upon here or any other problems relating to veterans' affairs from William Butler or Emil Larson at the administration office.

Q—If a disability existed prior to enlistment, is compensation or pension payable for increase in severity occurring during such enlistment?

A—Existing legislation provides for compensation or pension on account of aggravation of disabilities during service as well as for incurrence of disabilities during service.

Q—If a veteran refuses hospital treatment, or leaves the hospital against medical advice, does such act affect compensation or pension?

A—No, unless his hospitalization was for the purpose of observation, in which event his leaving the hospital will be considered analogous to a refusal to report for examination.

Q—When is additional allowance for constant need for attendant payable?

A—Additional allowance for nurse or attendant, or regular aid and attendance is based on the determination of: inability of claimant to dress or undress himself, or to keep himself ordinarily clean and presentable; frequent need of adjustment of any special prosthetic or orthopedic appliances which by reason of the particular disability cannot be done without aid; inability of claimant to feed himself through loss of coordination of upper extremities or through extreme weakness; inability to attend to the wants of nature; incapacity, physical or mental, of the claimant to protect himself from hazards or dangers incident to his daily environment; total blindness; bedridden.

STRIKE THREAT ENDED

Marquette—A wage dispute between Local 179, International Chemical Workers, AFL, and the Cliffs Dow Chemical company, in which the union had demanded an 18½ cent an hour increase when negotiations began six weeks ago, was settled yesterday at the compromise figure of eight cents, retroactive to May 6.

Signing of the wage agreement by management representatives and the local's bargaining committee followed a three to two vote of the union membership Wednesday night to end a strike threat if that compromise were accepted by the company.

During the negotiations the company had first offered two and then four cents.

Welcome Rotarians!

THE people of Escanaba today welcome the 143rd District Conference of Rotary International at the opening of a two-day session which will be mutually beneficial to the Rotarians and their ladies and to the 48 communities in the district from which they come.

For the program of Rotary is primarily one service. Service to the club, to the community, to the vocation in which the member is classified, and to the world. And most recently Rotary has instituted in Yutrotar a service to youth, a program which originated in this district, and whose members are for the first time meeting in conjunction with district conference at Escanaba.

Escanaba's Rotary Club, host club to the conference, was chartered in 1920, is one of the oldest clubs in the district. It also has an enviable record of service in this community, perhaps none better known to the public than in the field of crippled children's work.

This community knows most of this story of unselfish service which has brought incalculable benefit to the crippled and the afflicted child of Escanaba and Delta county. It knows of the clinics the Rotary club has sponsored, of the funds raised to finance crippled children's work, and most recently of the day camp for such children held last summer on the bay shore. Since the club was chartered it has raised thousands of dollars, and its members have devoted thousands of hours to the cause of the crippled child.

The 48 Rotary Clubs of 143rd district are part of a service organizations which totals more than 5,750 clubs with a membership of more than 271,000 business and professional men throughout the world. The high ideals exemplified in the service program of Rotary International is a considerable force toward better understanding between men of many nations. This understanding gives added impetus to the movement for world peace.

Escanaba joins, therefore, in welcoming Rotary's district conference and wishing the delegates, while here, enjoyment in the conference program—and continued success in service when they return to their home clubs in Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Miners Back to Work

WHILE it would be rash and somewhat inconsistent with the facts to say that the coal strike has been ended, the 12-day truce offered by John L. Lewis and accepted by the mine operators offers genuine hope that industrial paralysis will not overtake the country through lack of fuel.

John L. Lewis was not just being magnanimous in proposing a truce. The temper of the country was mounting at a feverish clip and congressional action to clip the wings of the United Mine Workers and their unreasonable demands was in the offing. Lewis acted merely to forestall that legislation and not because he was at all concerned about the deplorable state of national affairs that resulted from idleness in the coal mines. It may be assumed that Lewis is merely backing up for another start.

Any wage increases that will eventually be agreed up for the mine workers will be retroactive. The fundamental issue in the coal strike, however, was not a wage increase as that was offered by the coal operators at the beginning of negotiations. The strike was stalemated by the union's demand for a royalty payment to the United Mine Workers Union, ostensibly for a health and welfare fund for the miners.

The coal operators have agreed in principle to the establishment of a health and welfare fund, but they have not agreed and presumably will never agree to a royalty payment to the union for that purpose or any other purpose.

The idea of making royalty payments by an industry to a union is something revolutionary in labor relations. If the coal operators yielded on this point now, it would open an entirely new wave of demands upon industry all over the nation and eventually turn labor unions into an outright racket. Labor unions would operate not for the benefit of its members but primarily for its officers, who would be by far the greater beneficiaries.

George N. Harder

BOUNDLESS enthusiasm for his work and his many civic activities was an outstanding feature of the interesting and successful career of George N. Harder, widely known lumbering and railroad executive, who died here on Friday.

Whenever George Harder tackled a job he gave it everything he had. It was this devotion to his responsibilities that caused him to rise to a high position in industry. He became a national figure in the lumbering field, and his abilities and resourcefulness were recognized with his election to the presidency of two national trade associations.

As a member of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club, Mr. Harder performed many valued services to the community. He was deeply devoted to his family, friends and church. Mr. Harder was a fine citizen, one who achieved success in many worthwhile endeavors and his death is an irreparable loss to the community.

Let's Clean Up

NEW home building, tree and shrub planting, repainting of houses and yard cleaning are all steps toward making Escanaba the city beautiful. But Escanaba cannot be 100 per cent attractive as long as old eyesores remain in sight.

In various parts of the town, unsightly buildings, which are veritable fire traps and breeding places for rats and mice, still are to be seen in too large numbers. Where good intentions have been shown in razing old buildings, the good work has not gone far enough in some instances. Tumbledown foundations and debris still mar the lots where some old landmarks once stood.

Escanaba has possibilities for being one of the most attractive cities in the country. Nature has been kind, but man has been unkind. Attractiveness is an intangible community asset, but it certainly has high value. Each and every citizen should strive for this common objective.

FEDERAL AIRPORT AID (Iron Mountain News)

A compromise Federal appropriations bill providing $500,000,000 for development of a nation-wide network of airports has passed the House and is pending in the Senate.

As the measure now stands, communities as well as states may directly request Federal monies to match local appropriations. The Senate's original bill required that each state create an airport agency to pass on all projects and handle Federal funds.

This was an excellent provision. It is unfortunate it was eliminated in committee. Whether it can be reinstated at this late date is a question. Michigan has had a department of aeronautics for many years. It has contributed greatly to sound airport development in the state, extending expert assistance to municipalities and counties which would not otherwise be available except at considerable cost.

As an example, the state department of aeronautics has assisted Dickinson county's aeronautics committee in the preparation and approval of plans for the development of runways and other work at the Ford airport. Recently the state aeronautics director, with his engineering advisor, studied the layout in detail, making recommendations for initial work. If this aid had not been available, the county would have been forced to proceed on its own initiative or spend money to obtain the services of an aeronautical engineer.

Regardless of the final form of the appropriations bill, it is likely most states will establish aeronautics departments to assure high standards of airport development and to provide some degree of control over expenditure of state monies. Although Michigan airport appropriations are being temporarily withheld because of a constitutional technicality and pending outcome of a test suit, the state is prepared to match community appropriations on a 50-50 basis. Federal aid will be forthcoming on the same basis. This will mean that in Michigan the local unit of government will bear only 25 per cent of the cost of airport construction.

QUIZ SESSION

Washington: Please decide a wager. Is situation "sitch-oo-way-shun" or "sit-yoo-way-shun"?—A.R.D.

Answer: In normal and unaffected speech, the "tu" is palatized, thus: sitch-oo-AY-shun.

Portersville: I notice Pittsburgh papers speak of "smog" making work indoors difficult without artificial light. It seems a good word to me. Is it acceptable?—F. H. McC.

Answer: Yes, it is a sound Americanism that is coined from "smoke" and "fog." Merriam Webster's sanctions it as meaning: "A fog made heavier and darker by the smoke of a city." Another blend-word frequently encountered nowadays is "brunch," from "breakfast" and "lunch."

It designates a late breakfast or an early lunch which serves as both breakfast and lunch. Such words as smog and brunch are sometimes called portmanteau words.

Milwaukee: In referring to one leg of a pair of pants, should one say "pant leg" or "pants leg"?—H. L. B.

Answer: Pants is a plural noun. In speaking of one leg of a pair of pants, leg is singular, and pants remains plural. Better pants legs.

Los Angeles: Here is a clipping in which a "supervisory clerk" is mentioned. Is there such a word as "supervisory"?—D. J.

Answer: Yes, it's "supervisory" the hard way. It's in some dictionaries but I believe it was invented by old Dr. S., my outrageous fossil of an assistant.

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington—Republican Senator Forrest C. Donnell of Webster Groves, Missouri, touched off a hot one the other day, when he objected to Secretary of Labor Schwollenbach's presentation of a statement prepared for him by someone else, in support of the National Health Insurance Bill.

It's a fine idea for Senator Donnell to be from Missouri, and to have to be shown where everything comes from. But on this "ghost-writing" business, as it's called—well, Senator Donnell hasn't been around Washington very long. Maybe it hasn't registered on him that a lot of the speeches his distinguished colleagues make with such temper, tears, and tremolo are not written solely by the gro-a-a-t statesmen who deliver them. It wouldn't do, either, for Senator Donnell to inquire too closely into the real authorship of many magazine articles which appear under the bylines of leaders in public life.

For ghost-writers haunt every public office in Washington, and politicians couldn't do business without them. It may be dishonest for these big figures to employ a little collaboration for the composition of their deathless prose and oratory, but it saves a lot of time, and that's what counts. It takes three days or more to get up a good speech that says anything. And often when a public official delivers a speech that isn't too hot, you may be justified in the suspicion that he didn't listen to the advice of his "ghost," or else that he wrote it himself—in a hurry.

—HAD TO HAVE HELP—

For instance, in the past month Secretary Schwollenbach had to make three important appearances before congressional committees, deliver three speeches, and make four statements before labor groups. Schwollenbach is fortunate, in that his past legislative and judicial experience has made him a good extemporaneous speaker. But if he had had to do all his own research for these 10 jobs alone, he wouldn't have done anything else all month.

Across the street from Schwollenbach's Palace of Labor is Henry Wallace's Castle of Commerce. In the month of April, Wallace made three statements before congressional committees and delivered eight speeches, four prepared and four ad lib. Wallace is a gifted enough speaker and writer in his own right, but he sometimes uses a "ghost" for the first draft, after telling said "ghost" what he wants to say.

Wallace takes this home and works it over, then dictates a new draft in his own language. That is sometimes kicked around some more by advisers who tell him that if he says thus and so, he'll get in trouble. After which Wallace goes ahead and says it, and gets in trouble.

Up the Mall is Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. He made four speeches in April, two radio talks, two appearances before Congress, and issued three important statements on food policy. He, likewise, could not have carried this load without the help of a whole staff of economists and experts.

—GHOST-WRITERS INDISPENSABLE—

If there is anything dishonest about this system, it is that anyone should expect any public official to make all these public utterances and then do an administrative and policy-making job in addition. Ghosts have become absolute necessities, even for writing many officeholder's letters.

Congressmen learned this long ago. They can't handle their mail from home and look after the interests of their constituents and still find time to write speeches on involved issues. Plenty of them ask the executive departments for help in preparing speeches, and they get it. Furthermore, many congressional committees borrow "ghosts" from the executive departments to do their research and write their reports.

Plenty of hot-shots around Washington have had their reputations made by gifted ghost-writers. And it's amazing how many a stuffed-shirt will, in time, come to believe that he was the original author of famous epigrams put into his mouth by his ghost.

When a celebrity loses a good ghost, he often ceases to be a celebrity. Ghosts modestly realize this. They pride themselves on being able to imitate "the boss's style."

This shows up most prominently when some great administrator leaves public office, by invitation, and takes up a writing or speaking career in private life—always at fancy fees. There's the injustice of it. Stripped of his ghost, without his inside sources of government information, without his government research staff and analysts, such a great man is revealed in all his literary nakedness. He not only has nothing to say, but he is a lousy reporter to boot, and what he does find out isn't very well expressed.

essed with fear of having body odors. Is there a name for such an obsession?—Dr. W.

Answer: Call it "bromidrosophobia," from "bromidrosis," a medical word for odoriferous perspiration. Pronounce it: BROE-mi-DROE-si-POE-bi-uh (All "i's" short as in "sit").

Philadelphia: We have an argument concerning the proper way to say the word "petite." I say "PET-it."—Mrs. H. B.

Answer: Sorry, no PET-ite (French for "small") is, in both French and English: puh-TEET.

Savannah: How's this one, found in a local news item? " . . . Lady Astor, while she was being interviewed by the taxi stand at the Union Station."

Answer: Since they split the atom, I'll believe anything.

"We Plead, No Guilty!"

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

ON MOTHER'S DAY—One of the chief difficulties encountered on this Mother's Day of 1946 is to find a gift which will properly honor and please the lady to be honored.

One young man, seeking to determine what his mother wanted "most of all" was "stunned" when she voiced a reminiscent longing for "a few bars of Fels Naphtha soap." Or, she added, if someone would present her with a half-pound of butter (a whole pound was too much to hope for) or some oleo she would be exceedingly pleased. These articles being unobtainable, she continued, it would give her great pleasure to receive a large can of tomatoes.

The son attempted to find the articles requested by his mother, but after fruitless effort gave up and purchased one Lucite handbag and a pair of ear rings, of which there seemed to be plenty on the market. A pair of "comfies" were thrown in for good measure.

A TYPICAL DAY—The American mother of today will find herself in need of the "comfies" after a day of shopping. While she is not of the complaining sort, the American mother of 1946 is a trifle confused by the condition of things in general.

Looking for a beef roast for her family, she is given the choice of weiners and ring bologna, on which she has fed the family for the past few months. At the same time she is conscious of the plethora of fur coats being offered for sale. There are other luxury items too numerous to mention, but she has difficulty finding a cotton undershirt for her son.

The American mother of 1946, whose first concern is to keep her family comfortable, has taken to counting the lumps of coal in the basement, and loading herself down with sweaters so she may keep warm and conserve coal for use just in the evening. Incidentally, there is something a trifle incompatible in the spectacle of a Mother's Day when mother receives a luxurious bangle—but can't obtain enough coal to take the chill of the house.

SHE'S NOT A WHISTLER—The usual conception of a "mother" has too long been an elderly lady sitting placidly in a chair, as depicted by Whistler in his famous painting.

The American mother who occupied a chair too long in these days would soon be an emaciated creature. For in these days mother must be on her toes if she is to keep herself and her family in clothing and food. She must spend about twice as much time in shopping as she used to do, principally because she has to be often at the shops to get certain scarce items at all.

There is, for instance, salad dressing. If Whistler's mother lived today and needed salad dressing she would have to haunt the shops so she would be present at the opportune moment when the dressing was placed on sale. If she did not do this, she would get none at all.

And then there are the occasions when mother must forget her dignity and participate in what is called a "sale." The articles to be sold may be anything from underwear, sheets, boys' overalls or towels—but unless she gets into the front line of battle her chance of obtaining any of these articles is slim indeed.

THE GIFT SUPPLIE—One young woman, who had come home for Mother's Day, had brought her mother a gift which delighted the good lady more than anything she might receive. The husband and father, hearing his wife's exclamations and seeing her throw her arms around her daughter's neck in a transport of pleasure, was curious to find out what the gift might be that caused such expressions of gratitude.

"Oh, look! Look!" cried the excited mother of 1946, "four beautiful wash cloths!"

HARD TO UNDERSTAND—Mother is more likely to be confused than overjoyed at receiving several boxes of candy on Mother's Day.

In the first place she is scrambling to eke out her rationed supply of sugar so she will have enough for her family's needs, and to do a little canning when summer comes. She would like to put up additional jams and jellies and fruits this year because she is being warned that there will probably be a shortage of canned things on the market in the winter ahead.

Mother would also like to do some baking occasionally, because she finds pleasure in it and her family always compliments her on her ability with cakes, rolls and pies. But with the sugar scarce as it is she must of necessity curb her instinct to cook for her own children.

Therefore when her children on Mother's Day bring her several pounds of candy, representing an almost equal amount of sugar,

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Three years ago this month, this columnist, laboring under the impression that it was the obligation of newspapers to expose grafters, war profiteers and other bamboozlers of the public, revealed certain strange things that went on in the famous "Red House on R Street."

Pearson

Shortly thereafter, the inmate of that house, one John Monroe, sued this columnist for $1,000,000 with a side suit against the Washington Post for $350,000.

The charges I brought against Monroe at first might seem unbelievable, but he was one of the most unbelievable, irrepressible lobbyists ever seen in a city where lobbyists pounce out from the potted palms of every cocktail lounge and where, today, one even occupies a confidential office next to the President.

Monroe had the gall to invite to his Red House on R Street the then Secretary of the Navy, Frank Knox; he invited senators and congressmen, generals and admirals. What's more, he got away with it! They accepted his invitations. He would put his feet up on a chair in the home of Adm. Ernest King, then top commander of the Navy, order a scotch, pick up the phone, and tell one of his cronies:

"I'm up at Admiral King's house. I just wanted to let you know I was working on that contract. The Navy thinks it'll be okay."

—RATS FOR SALE—

Monroe even offered to sell the entire muskrat production of Louisiana—which obviously he did not control—to a New York fur dealer if the latter would put up $25,000 campaign expenses for Congressman Jimmy Morrison of Louisiana.

He got Congressman Compton White of Idaho along to a meeting with representatives of New York butchers which turned out to be a discussion of ways and means of black marketeering in meat—a condition of which was that the butchers put up $100,000.

Generals, admirals and congressmen flocked to his house despite the fact that shortly before the war, as this column pointed out, Monroe paid an income tax of only $3. He had been sued 22 times for debt, was kicked out of West Point, advertised a phoney oil deal in Louisiana which lost money for a lot of poor suckers; he tried to sell munitions to the Greeks, Springfield rifles to the Dominicans, and poked his nose into every war contract where he thought he could rake off a few hundred dollars in commissions.

Much of the above was published by this column—and later proved when the $1,000,000 libel suit came to trial. After two weeks of testimony, the jury required only 30 minutes to decide Monroe was a phoney. It found for the defendant.

—BIG-WIGS KEPT COMING—

Even after that, however, senators and congressmen continued to dine at the Red House on R Street, and Monroe continued to enjoy the hospitality of Admiral King's home. Not even the facts brought out in the libel suit seemed to hurt the ebullient, irrepressible, unbelievable John Monroe.

Finally, however, the law caught up with him. Monroe was caught by federal authorities for black marketing in textiles to the tune of several hundred thousand dollars. A New York judge gave him a fine of $100,000 and two years in jail to think it over.

And the moral of the story is that almost anything can happen in this war-booming, gullible, lobbyist-ridden, fairytale city of Washington. It's sometimes hard even for this case-hardened observer of the Washington Merry-Go-Round to believe all that goes on.

—SMALL BUSINESS PROTECTORS—

One of the most watchful guardians of small business and the public just before the war was the justice department's hard-hitting anti-trust division. Time after time it exposed cooperation between U. S. big business and cartels in Germany or Japan which were delaying the American arms program.

It was the anti-trust division which revealed that Standard Oil of New Jersey was in cahoots with Hitler's I. G. Farben to keep synthetic rubber patents away from the U. S. rubber industry, thus delaying our synthetic rubber program.

It was the anti-trust division which showed up Andy Mellon's aluminum corporation of America and its deal with I. G. Farben to limit magnesium—a product essential to airplane manufacture.

It was the anti-trust division which exposed a combine of American electric companies and their cooperation with foreign cartels.

—POST-WAR NEED GREATER—

With the end of the war, President Truman and Attorney General Tom Clark were determined that the anti-trust division be more alert than ever. For the period after the last war was when big business waving the banner of "Back to Normalcy," entrenched itself firmer than ever.

However they reckoned without pudgy, Palm-singing Congressman Louis Rabaut of Detroit, chairman of the sub-committee on justice department appropriations. Louis and his committee whittlers got out their penknives and proceeded to whittle the anti-trust division down to a point lower than during the war.

If the appropriation stands as is, the anti-trust probers, instead of taking on new men, will have to scuttle part of their staff.

An Ohio man plans to construct a small home atop a 300-foot pole. Most of us have had little luck building castles in the air.

RAIN BENEFITS GRAIN CROPS

Winter Wheat Continues To Look Good In Plains Region

Washington—Wheat and other food crops benefited by a rainy week over most of the country, the U. S. Weather Bureau's digest of reports from its hundreds of field observers indicates. Some parts of the Southeast, indeed, have been getting too much of a good thing, so that farmers are unable to get any work done in their muddy fields. Only the Southwest, from western Oklahoma on out, is still suffering from drought.

Winter wheat continues to look good as a result of the timely rains, especially in the northern Plains region and the north central states. Seeding of spring wheat is now practically complete, clear to the Canadian boundary. Some delay in planting resulted from the rains, but the improved condition of the soil makes up for this. With fair weather prevailing over the Corn Belt, planting of that crop should go forward rapidly.

There was a raid by the frost down the Rocky Mountain and western Plains area early in the week, with light frost reported as far south as northern New Mexico. However, little damage was done.

More rain is generally needed for pastures and ranges in the Rockies and areas to the west, except Washington and Oregon. Livestock are in satisfactory condition, except locally in the drought-stricken Southwest.

Save left-over meat, drippings and gravy and use them to flavor meatless entrees.

Cameras Have Same
Limitations As Eyes

New York—Your eyes have the same ultimate limitations as a photographic film or a television pick-up tube, but the eye is 250 times as effective in viewing as a camera is in taking motion pictures.

Comparing human eyes with movie and television cameras, Dr. Albert Rose of the RCA Laboratories, Inc., told the Society of Motion Picture Engineers here this afternoon that a unified approach to the limitations and possibilities of the three picture pick-up devices would help the study of "seeing" media.

The great limitation to what we can see with our eyes is "the discrete nature of light flux," and the same is true for photographer's film and the television set's pick-up tube, according to Dr. Rose.

He said that terms used in studying human vision, television and photography should be standardized. For example, Dr. Rose said that what is called minimum discernible contrast in eyesight becomes graininess in film and signal-to-noise ratio in television.

Comparing the eye with a camera, he reported that not all the greater effectiveness of the eye can be attributed to a lower quantum efficiency of film. Part of the eye's greater vision power is a result of the high gamma of the printed film which requires a higher than normal signal-to-noise ratio, he said.

NEW CAR SHOW IS CALLED OFF

Strikes And Materials Shortage Are Cause Of Cancellation

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

Detroit, May 12 (AP)—The car industry has called off the traditional peacetime national automobile show in New York this year but it will stage a showing in Detroit next month.

The Detroit showing, from June 3 to 9, will be part of the industry's golden jubilee celebration arranged to depict 50 years of progress in the making of motor vehicles and to honor its pioneers.

It is to be called the Natiqae Automotive exposition with scores of early day cars and trucks on display. It will afford opportunity, however, for the car makers to show the latest models, which because of limited production remain as much of a curiosity to hundreds of thousands of motorists as do the old time one-cylinder, chain-driven, motorized buggies brought out in the mid-nineties.

Generally the new cars to be displayed will be 1946 models. An exception will be Studebaker which has just announced details of its 1947 models. Kaiser-Frazer also may have the initial Kaiser and Frazer cars on display.

Strikes the Reason

The customary national automobile show was called off because the industry, plagued by strikes and materials shortages has been unable to get into even approximately normal production. So far as has been disclosed up until now no other car manufacturer is planning to turn to 1947 model output until after the first of next year.

But most, if not all of the 1947 vehicles are well beyond the blueprint stage and every manufacturer knows precisely what he expects to incorporate in them. Innovations in the new Studebaker indicating a trend that other makers probably will want to match include a new braking system that adjusts itself automatically, a new "floating spring mount," a redistribution of weight and increased vision for driver and passengers.

There is also a new two-section drive shaft, designed to achieve a lower center of gravity.

Undoubtedly there will be greater application of automatic gearshift in the second postwar cars. Automotive engineers have said the 1947 models will be the first to reflect design and production lessons learned in nearly four years of war-time engineering.

Economy Models

However, excepting for custom-built cars, the industry's next models will not be revolutionary in any respect.

In the competition for the huge postwar market the car makers whose operations since the war's end have been far from profitable cannot afford to risk buyer resistance by introducing a revolutionary innovation either in design or styling.

Thus the new lighter weight and lower-priced economy-utility units it contemplates for introduction next year generally will follow standard lines.

A large part of the billion dollars the industry has set aside for expansion and rehabilitation is going into the production of these new units, which are needed to take the place of what formerly were the low-priced vehicles but now have moved into the group that in pre-war days would be called medium priced.

Thus far only Chevrolet and Ford have definitely disclosed plans for the new lower priced cars. Others, however, are expected to announce similar projections before the end of the current year.

The "Battle of the Century" between Chevrolet and Ford for dominance in the volume production field conceivably could center around the new "economy" models.

Nursing Saved 97% Of Navy's Wounded

Washington, May 11 (AP)—Over 97 percent of the navy's wounded survived, and a "substantial share" of the credit is due the Navy Nurse Corps, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal declared today.

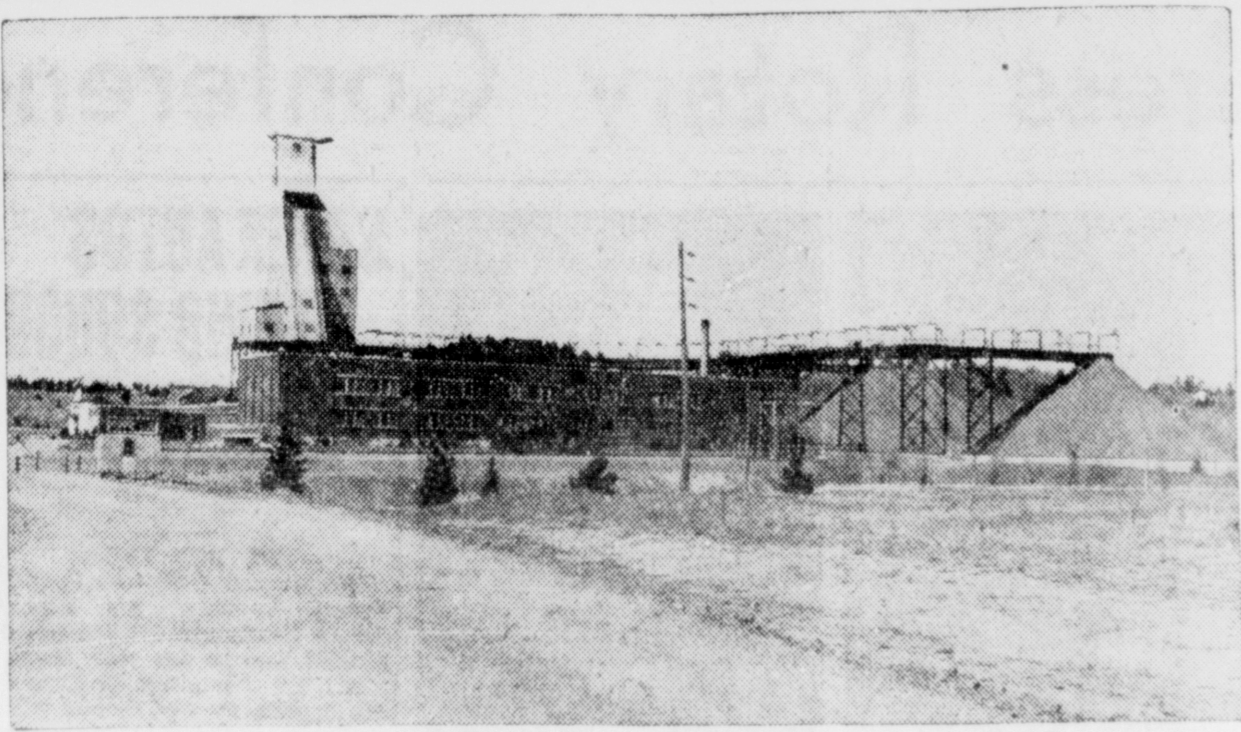

Congratulating the Corps on its 38th anniversary (Monday), Forrestal said in a statement: "Throughout the war, at advanced bases, afloat and in the air, as well as at home, navy nurses carried on their vital work with patience, devotion, fortitude and skill in the best traditions of their profession and of the navy."

"To the nurses corps may be attributed a substantial share of credit for the navy's low death-rate of casualties."

The navy department pointed with pride to life-saving methods such as the air evacuation service which flew 4,500 casualties out of Okinawa in one month. A flight nurse was in charge of each plane-ful of wounded.

Toledo Finds Solutions For Industrial Disputes

BY MAX HALL
Associated Press Labor Reporter

While Washington is beating its brains out over the labor situation, the "Community Approach" is quietly gaining headway.

Interesting experiments, all different, are going on in Toledo, Boston and San Francisco. Ideas similar to each have taken root in other spots. The "Community Approach" is only a small movement so far, but anything that seems to work in one city probably will be imitated in other cities.

Three main types of effort are being made:

1. Management, labor and the public form a triple partnership. They set up machinery to settle labor disputes, under the sponsorship of the city government. This is the Toledo plan.

2. Management and labor form a double partnership, without the city government. Boston's plan is a good example.

3. Management, acting alone, organizes an "Employers Council." The council hires experts and negotiates with the unions on behalf of all its member companies. The San Francisco employers council is the best known. Perhaps 20 smaller councils have been formed, mostly in the West.

Let's take up Toledo and describe in more detail what is happening there.

About a year ago the mayor of Toledo appointed a committee of 18 to study management-labor problems. It is called the labor-management-citizens' committee (LMC Committee).

There are six labor members, six industry members and six public members. The labor men are CIO and AFL leaders. The industry members are six of the top industrialists in town. The public members include vice-Mayor Michael V. Disalle, who acts as chairman; a federal judge, a university dean, and three clergymen.

These men met every two weeks for seven months and came up with an industrial relations charter for the city.

On Feb. 13, the Toledo City Council adopted the charter unanimously. It also passed an ordinance making the LMC Committee permanent, providing money for its operations and giving it power to carry on fact-finding, mediation and arbitration whenever requested by both parties to a dispute.

Since labor and management leaders drew up this plan in the first place and are participating actively, there is powerful pressure on any company or union to submit its disputes to the LMC committee.

But there is more to the Toledo plan than machinery for settling disputes.

The LMC Committee charter now states six principles:

1. Management acknowledges the right of employees to form unions without interference and to bargain collectively. At the same time those who bargain for the unions "recognize their duty to demonstrate leadership and responsibility in keeping with the trust reposed in them."

2. Labor recognizes "the inherent right of management to direct the operations of the enterprise." At the same time, management recognizes its duty to demonstrate "the type of leadership and responsibility it expects of the representatives of labor under principle No. 1."

3. "Neither labor nor management should discriminate against any employee because of race, creed or color."

4. "Management and labor agree that improvements in productive efficiency and technological advances result in lower costs and selling prices and wider markets for the products of industry, thereby making possible higher wages and a rising standard of living and increasing employment."

5. Management and labor realize that disagreements will arise and believe that the "damaging effects" on the community should be lessened by joint discussion and by the voluntary use of the LMC Committee's facilities.

6. An educational program shall be organized to promote a better mutual understanding between "workers, stewards, union officials, supervisors, foremen and managers."

Wilkinson To Take Chinchilla Ranch Operation Course

R. J. Wilkinson, Bark River fur farmer, will leave Tuesday for Pontiac, where he will take a two week training course in ranch management at the Michigan Chinchilla ranch.

Wilkinson has purchased five pairs of chinchillas from the Pontiac ranch and upon his return will establish the Northern Chinchilla ranch on County Road 551.

Remind Residents Of Garbage Rules As Clean-up Ends

There has been some improvement in observance of the local garbage collection rules, Joe Holmes, superintendent of public works, reports, but a lot of residents are still using containers of more than 30 gallon size which the department cannot handle.

Use of the proper sized garbage can kept in the right place in the alley will insure weekly city pickups.

The annual spring clean-up should be completed within ten days or two weeks, Holmes said. The first pick-up of ashes and refuse with the power shovel will be finished in a week and clean-up crews making the follow-up will complete their work shortly afterward.

Residents are asked again to comply with the garbage collection rules in order to insure themselves the type of service they expect. The rules follow:

Cans must be placed within ten feet of the alley line but containers at homes which have no alley frontage will be serviced; if the yard is fenced, place the can near the gate or build a platform so cans are accessible from the alley.

Cans must have handles, unattached covers and must be of reasonable weight (not to exceed 30 gallons).

All garbage should be wrapped. Garbage cans should be rinsed out once each week. Cans will last longer if placed on a platform.

A collection of grass cuttings and rubbish which can be placed in separate containers will be made once each month if possible. Waste construction materials, tree trimmings and other heavy rubbish must be hauled by private agencies or the resident himself. This type of rubbish will not be collected by the city.

Resorts Planning On Longer Season

Marquette—Surveys by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau indicate that Northern Michigan resort operators generally are planning to extend their operating season over more than four months, in line with advice from the Michigan Tourist Council for an early start and late close for the state's tourist industry.

At the present time, American-plan resort facilities in the Peninsula report July and August, usual popular vacation months, nearly filled by advance reservations, but virtually all of them are notifying inquirers that they still have open dates and unfilled facilities in June, September and during the colorful autumn season of early October.

"It was the opinion of the state tourist council and the Michigan Hotel association at their meeting in Traverse City last week," said the Bureau's Secretary-Manager, George E. Bishop, "that if Michigan's tourist guests are to be served with available facilities, the season must be lengthened."

"A survey by our organization indicates a general movement by operators of resorts, hotels, cabins and rooming houses to open the season earlier and close later next fall."

★ Medical ethics are not something unique and set apart, but simply a direct application of the Golden Rule. They provide an honest answer to the question, "What is best for the patient?" As one physician put it, "I do for my patients what I would do for a member of my own family."

As pharmacists, we adhere to the same code. The quality of our medicines and service is the best it is possible to give. You, the patient, are our first concern.

Outstanding Speakers Will Address Rotary Conference Here

PROGRAM WILL OPEN TONIGHT

Get-Together In Afternoon At Escanaba Country Club

Men of national and international reputation will address Rotarians and Rotary Anns and members of Uthrotar who today will come to Escanaba for a two-day conference of the 143rd district, Rotary International.

Only meeting of the scheduled program which the public may attend is tonight's session at Wm. Oliver Memorial Auditorium in the junior high school. Other sessions are limited to Rotary delegates and their wives because of limited facilities.

Speaker at the program starting at 8 o'clock tonight will be Morris H. Coers of Indianapolis, traveler and lecturer, whose topic is "Down Dead End With the Kids in America." Coers served as a member of the Indiana House of Representatives, during the recent war was a field director for the American Red Cross, and spent 18 months overseas.

Recognized as an authority on various phases of international affairs, Coers tempers idealism with realism. He is pastor of a Baptist church of 1,200 members, and prior to the war was chaplain of the Indiana Boys' Reformatory School.

McGovern in Morning
The Rev. Otto Steen, pastor of the First Methodist church in Escanaba, will deliver the invocation at tonight's program. The Escanaba senior high school a capella choir will sing under the direction of Miss Jessie Wick.

Monday morning the Rotarians will hear a message from Rotary International by John B. Reilly of Whittier, Calif., and a report by Francis E. Taylor of Merrill, Wis., district governor of Rotary.

Highlight of the Monday morning session will be a speech by Commander William McGovern, professor of political science at Northwestern University, who has just returned to his profession after serving four years in the navy. Comdr. McGovern will speak on "Nations and Nationalism After the War."

Recently returned from an around-the-world tour under government auspices during which he had interviews with most of the world's notables, Comdr. McGovern in April of this year was in France and Germany in connection with the forthcoming breakup of German military power and also spent some time in London.

Neblett Banquet Speaker
In the summer of 1943 he visited the South and Southwest Pacific on an investigative tour. He has traveled far and wide during his picturesque career. Born in Manhattan, he studied in a monastery in Kyoto, Japan, at the age of 16, and became a Buddhist priest. In Japan at the beginning of the recent war with China, he and Mrs. McGovern were imprisoned in Manchukuo. He attended Oxford University in 1917, taught Chinese at the University of London. He explored the Amazon, dug up Inca remains in Peru, penetrated the forbidden city of Lhasa in Tibet. He speaks 12 languages.

Comdr. McGovern will also speak to Rotary Anns Monday noon at their luncheon at the country club, since they will not have an opportunity to hear him at the morning session.

Monday at 6:30 o'clock is the governor's banquet at St. Joseph's clubrooms, where the principal speaker will be Johnnie Neblett, Chicago radio speaker. His subject will be "So the Story Goes." At the banquet the Rev. Fr. S. M. Allen, Green Bay, will deliver the invocation. Dinner music will be played by the Escanaba high school string ensemble, directed by A. L. Shomento. Louis Hildebrand will lead group singing; and the Ombeus choir, directed by R. Bowers, will sing. James R.

SAFER AUTOS BEING SOUGHT

Old - Style Headlighting Regarded As Major Menace

BY RON ROSS
Washington (SS)—As President Truman keynoted his Highway Safety Conference with a warning against murder on the nation's roads, the Committee on Engineering opened its discussions with a preliminary report offering some ideas for safer automobiles.

The report urges modern, sealed-beam headlights, declaring, "about one-third of the vehicles met on the road have old-style headlighting in various stages of depreciation." Polarized headlights are called a "possibility" with more experimental work needed.

Direction signal lights on cars have not reached the stage of standard equipment, the report says, adding that modification of some highway laws will be necessary if they do. While there is no substitute for good driving in turning, the engineers report that signal lights seem to be a desirable safety measure.

Wartime synthetic rubber may continue in the tubes of your tires, because tubes made of butyl are safer than natural rubber. Tubes made of this synthetic maintain inflation pressures over much longer periods than do tubes made of the natural rubber product. The report found shortcomings in some safety proposals. Governors on passenger automobiles, the engineers say, would be hazardous because they would prevent the driver from speeding out of trouble in some cases. Even safety glass, praised for its shatterproof qualities, must be modified to save lives. Present safety glass in cars is so strong that fractured skulls are reported instead of cuts from flying glass, the experts declared.

MARIE II COMING HERE—Word has been received by Roy J. Cargill that Fred Bradley plans to take his boat into Munising Bay again this year for the trolling season. Mr. Bradley expects to arrive in Munising between June 20 and July 1 to carry parties on deep sea trolling voyages. With him will be his wife and secretary.

The boat, Marie II, pictured above, is a 38' Mathews built cruiser powered by Twin gas screws using a Chrysler Royal 130 H.P. motor. It is completely rigged for the comfort of deep sea fishing and has berth space for five persons. R. J. Cargill has been employed to Captain the boat again this year.

Chan Brown Conducted Many Business Ventures

Munising—It will be 60 years ago, May 17, 1886, that a 16 year old lad by the name of Chan Brown landed his rowboat on the shore of Lake Superior a quarter of a mile up-bay from Rock River. He had just come from Marquette and was headed for a job managing the store at the Rock River station, supplying the nearby lumber camps. Little did he realize that over a half century later he would be running a resort camp site on the mouth of Rock River so close to the spot where he made his first landing.

Chan Brown not only owns this camp site today but during these many years has owned and operated many stores and other business interests in this area.

Many Business Operations

His general store at Chatham, along with selling meats and groceries also included an undertaking parlor, millinery shop, the village post office and the telephone office. The store was known as Brown's general merchandise store. It burned down in 1912 and was replaced by a cement block building which the Co-op took over and runs now.

Mr. Brown also owned the theatres in Chatham and Trenary, and the telephone system to the lumber camps from Marquette, also connecting with Forest Lake, Rumley, Eben, etc., building the line extending from Rock River to Trenary. He at one time owned and operated stores in Chatham, Green Junction and one at Camp Alger, a Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company lumber camp.

Chan Brown married Miss Agnes Warner, the school teacher of the little log school house at Lime-stone in 1892. His one ambition now is to some-day transport that schoolhouse to the Rock Riv-

SPEECH WINNER—Don Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rydell Potter, 226 West Munising Ave., holds the distinction of being the first U. P. high school student to win the Regional speech contest three years of his four years of high school.

He took the dramatic declamation event at Escanaba last Tuesday with a unanimous vote of the three speech judges with his interpretation of "The Tell Tale Heart" by Edgar Allen Poe.

Yd.; one tractor and bulldozer, 10-14 ton; and one Four-door Sedan, a trade-in of one 1942 Model, 6 Cylinder. Two-door Ford to be considered in the deal.

All proposals to be in sealed envelopes and plainly marked as containing bids.

The right to reject any or all proposals is reserved by the Alger County Road Commission.

er location. His wife died five years ago. They had one child, now Mrs. Adna Alice Braamse of Escanaba. Mrs. Braamse and her three children, Mary 14 years old, Peter, 16 years and Billy six years old, spend the summer months with Chan Brown at his Rock River cabin site.

Hard Winters Recalled

Mr. Brown recalls many tough winters and tells of one particular incident he'll always remember. One day, while he was running one of the lumber camp stores, he had to go to Marquette on business. It was about 25 miles away. He had a date to go dancing with one of the girls at Rock River that night. He and two lumberjacks started out on the train, but a blizzard started and when the train got to the rock cut it got stuck in deep snow. The two lumberjacks stopped in a section house and kept warm by the fire but Mr. Brown, remembering the date, continued on by foot.

Getting tired after awhile, he stopped and rested his pack on a snow drift. Before he knew it, the pack slipped and hit him, and he realized he had fallen asleep. He says he never would have waked up if it hadn't been for the pack as the temperature was 32 degrees below zero that day. He continued on his way and finished his business in Marquette and got back to the camp in time to attend the dance.

He is still as hearty and active, and these days, he'll be busy putting up electric light poles around the camp site for installation of electric lights for his tourist cabins and house, which power is supplied from the water wheel and electric generator located on Rock River.

Mr. Brown's theory is "Keep working and you won't get sick." He believes in living up to his own preachings.

Many Of Munising Business Places Get "Face-Lifting"

Munising—Among those who have or are making improvements to their business establishments or residences in Munising are the Beach Inn, Cheverette's News Stand, Budd's Eat Shop, Potter's Restaurant, Atkinson's Motor Sales and the George Flatley residence.

The Beach Inn, known to many the nation over as the only hotel in the U. S. that you enter through the back door, has undergone a face lifting with asbestos shingling now covering the building, a new roof, construction of a new back entrance and raising of the parking lot four and a half feet, now level with the building. The front porch overlooking the bay has been repaired and relandscaping is expected to be finished in the next month.

The Atkinson Motor Sales has renovated its show room which will now hold three cars, with general improvement included in the repairs.

The remodeling of Cheverette's news stand included lowering and installation of a tile effect ceiling, complete new shelving, new counter, installation of fluorescent lighting and new paint throughout the store. Expected in the future will be a new tile floor, and installation of a furnace.

The White Star Northern Oil company office along with the Burns department store have new fronts.

The only residence reported being remodelled is the George Flatley home, to have a complete basement, new roof and a new coat of paint. Other residences are having basements dug under the house and other "fixings" it is noted throughout the city.

RECEIVES PROMOTION

Munising—Word has been received here that Pfc. Kenneth Gerow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gerow, West Onota street, has been promoted to the grade of corporal. He is at present stationed at Fort Eustis, Va.

TO INSTALL OFFICERS

Munising—The Sacred Heart Parent-Teacher Association will hold installation of recently elected officers at a meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening in St. Dominick's hall. All members are requested to attend.

Fred Bradley Plans To Bring Cruiser Marie II Here Again

Munising—Congressman Fred Bradley will again take his trolling boat, Marie II, to fish out of Munising bay this year.

He has named Roy J. Cargill as captain of the boat. Mr. Cargill will leave for Rogers City about June 18 in order to ready the boat for the trip to Munising. It is expected to sail in the harbor here between June 20 and July 1.

The trip from Rogers City will probably include a stop at Whitefish Bay and Grand Marais to hunt for fishing grounds. The party may make a trip during the summer to Tahquamenon Falls which is about 18 miles up the river from Lake Superior waters. This same trip was attempted last year when the boat suffered a bent propeller.

Last year the take of lake trout by fishing parties aboard the Cruiser Marie II was 369. Dressed, these fish weighed in at 2,300 pounds. The largest fish caught in this territory is also credited to the Marie II on one of her cruises. A fisherman caught the record 41-pound lake trout while trolling from this boat.

Mr. Bradley, through his captain, R. J. Cargill, has applied for the same berth his boat occupied last year at the Munising municipal dock. Definite arrangements have not been given as yet, however.

Fishing Writer Has Tall Tales

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

St. Petersburg, Fla., (NEA).—Editors clamor for more fishing and hunting stuff on sport pages. What they need is more outdoor writers with imagination like Rube Allyn of St. Petersburg. A perfect head for the column written by Allyn, a reformed lino-type operator, would be "Hook, Lure and Sink."

Allyn makes the constituents' hair stand on end and keeps it in that position. Here are excerpts from his more recent gems:

"The shark looked us over, first out of one eye, then the other, opened the biggest mouth I've ever seen, displayed the most teeth I've ever looked at, took a bite at the boat."

"The Negro was turning white. He was turning blue, but he swung the mighty 25-pound sledge hammer. The stroke was off center. It was a sickening sound to hear the sledge crash through the stern of the boat instead of the shark's head. And just below the waterline, he knocked out a whole plank with that swipe."

"I excitedly tied the line to a stanchion. The shark was towing us out to sea. The boat steadily filled with water, but the shark gave us a break. He returned to take another bite out of the boat, and we got the line loose on that maneuver."

"Somehow we got the engine started, water flying everywhere from the revolving couplings. We made for the beach, got there just as the stern settled."

Another: "The lead whale attacked the boat, thrashing the occupants with his great broad tail, killing one man outright, wounding the other. The engine, still running, took the boat ashore."

Exhibit C: "Sharks were so thick that a person could walk on their backs, if that adventurous."

Round 4: "The tarpon rose to the surface with such a rush that he leaped over the stern into the boat, right through the legs of the fisherman. In the boat, the tarpon started to unload things. The battery, then the coil of the engine, went overboard, gear of all kinds was caught in the fish's tail, flipped over the side."

"The tarpon got his tail under the gas line, ripped the carburetor off the engine before the fisherman snatched up a wrench, fell on the fish, and lying beside it on the deck beat his funny assailant to death in a welter of gore."

Allyn tells of a fish gobbling two hooks simultaneously, and police being called to settle the argument between the man and woman on the pier.

Allyn doesn't confine himself to fishing. He even gives you a cure for a snake bite.

"The snake rattled, struck, the fangs entering the fleshy part of the hip. He cried out, grabbed the snake by the neck to pull it off. Luckily, his brother had in his hand a big cane knife, sharp as a razor."

"Another brother grabbed a small chicken, split it in half with

Prevention Trend Seen In Charities

New York—Prevention is replacing relief or charity in the work done by American philanthropic foundations, according to a survey by one of them, the Russell Sage Foundation.

Instead of mere relief, the institutions are turning toward research, experimental service and education as measures of prevention of ills in the various fields they cover. The report said that tax-supported public assistance and the social insurances now cover some of the work formerly done by foundations.

Most foundations, the survey reported, concentrate their expenditures in education, social welfare and health. New emphasis is noted in scientific research by privately endowed institutions.

A new field of work for foundations is suggested by the report that urges philanthropic aid to the studies contemplated by the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Iron Mountain Man Acquitted By Jury

Menominee — Bernard Labre, 32, of Iron Mountain, was acquitted by a jury in Menominee circuit court this morning of a charge of assault upon 72-year-old Mrs. Amanda Adams of Spalding in the Spalding home of Labre's parents on February 27.

Labre was charged with having struck Mrs. Adams on the head with a beer bottle. The defense pleaded that Labre, who testified he had been drinking through most of the month of February, was so drunk he was incapable of the freedom of mind and will necessary to intend committing an assault. Under Michigan law intent must be proved to warrant a conviction for assault.

OUTDOOR HIAWATHALAND

97,721 Deer
It doesn't come as a surprise to anyone, but it is now official—more hunters killed more deer in Michigan last season than ever before.

A kill of 97,721 deer last fall sets a new high and climaxes a 14-year increase, the conservation department's game division reports after completing analysis of deer hunters' kill report cards. The analysis is based on a card return similar to that in previous years, amounting to more than 25 per cent to date for the 1945 season.

The 269,977 licenses sold show the 1945 deer hunting army to be the largest in the state's history. Previous high in license sales was 226,432 in 1941. And hunters' success last season—with 36.2 per cent of those hunting bringing home venison—was the best it has been since 1933, when only one-quarter as many hunters (64,234 to be exact) were competing for a share of the season's crop.

The deer herd furnished the harvest of nearly 100,000 animals without harm to the stock, according to J. H. Stephenson, assistant chief of the game division. A series of light winters, including the one just ended, has kept deer numbers high and herds in good condition. But heavy winter losses in hard winters may recur, and game division deer management policy calls for harvesting annual surpluses while they are available.

Roscommon, with 18,646 hunters, was the most heavily hunted county last season and yielded the most deer—6,899 bucks—as 37 out of every 100 hunters scored. Oscoda, Ogemaw, Montmorency and Crawford counties all had more than 10,000 hunters each. Oscoda was second in yield of deer, with 5,286, while Alpena was third, with 4,614.

In the Northern Peninsula Iron county had the most hunters (6,623) the most bucks (3,380) and the best average luck 51 per cent). Chippewa, Schoolcraft, Marquette and Ontonagon counties all had more than 6,000 hunters and produced 2,400, 2,566, 2,823 and 2,708 bucks respectively.

Regular season hunting by residents accounted for 94,121 bucks, non-residents for 2,695, camp permits for 819 and the special Allegan and archery seasons for 86 deer.

For the preceding year, 1944, the total computed kill was slightly more than 60,000 deer by 224,461 resident hunters. So big is the new figure that Harry D. Ruhl, game division chief, had it rechecked in every possible way by his statistical department.

"It always has been impossible to get an actual report on every deer killed," Ruhl said, "because there always are some hunters who won't send in their cards, but we have worked out a system of crosschecks and spot checks that insures our figures being reasonably accurate and definitely accurate as to up and down trends. The present figures obviously reflect two good years in a row for the deer herd, plus a big gain in hunters."

Closing No Help

"That a lake closed to fishing accumulates no 'stockpile' of fish is copybook stuff to fisheries biologists, but 329 anglers using 129 boats went out to test the facts for themselves when 25-acre Wolf Lake, Van Buren county, was reopened to fishing after being closed 18 years. They got 21 trout and 63 assorted dogfish, suckers, perch and crappies.

Not included in the first day's count were a few walleyes and bass hooked and returned to the lake because the season on these fish is not yet open. Though few, the fish ran large. Rainbows and brown trout above 4 pounds were taken, and 6-pound bass and walleyes were put back. Pounds of fish per acre, research has shown, is proportionate not to fishing pressure but to the food and shelter available.

Fires Harm Fishing

Forest fires can definitely ruin good fishing. When the clothes and other vegetation that clothes the hillsides and stream banks is burned off, water control becomes difficult and soil erosion a major problem. Soil is washed into the lakes and streams and game fish do not thrive in muddy water.

Along trout waters the conditions following fires are especially certain to hurt the fishing. Removal of the cover that formerly shaded the stream may cause water temperatures to go kiting to the point where trout cannot live. The silting that comes from erosion will often cover the stream's spawning beds to the point where natural reproduction is cut to the vanishing point.

In addition to the harm suffered by trout waters in the wake of fires is the long period of time that must follow before such waters can recover the ability to provide homes for fish. A couple of favorable seasons may cover the land with vegetation and stop erosion, but it takes years to produce growth that will provide the shade necessary to keep temperatures down. It also takes years to wash away the sand and silt to provide suitable spawning beds.

Army Engineers To Hold Public Hearing
On June 13

Army engineers will conduct a public hearing in Gladstone on June 13 to determine if improvement of the local harbor is advisable at this time, according to a letter received here from A. R. Striegl, Lt. Col., Corps of Engineers and acting district engineer for the Milwaukee district.

The hearing is to be held in the city hall at 1 o'clock on June 13. All interested persons are invited to attend and be heard.

The hearing is in accordance with a resolution by the committee on Rivers and Harbors of the House of Representatives, U. S., adopted on March 26, 1946.

The hearing will determine if further improvement of the harbor for the benefit of light draft vessels is advisable at this time.

Summer Hats Ask Masculine Approval

"Behind every woman who buys a hat there is a man—dreamed-up or real..." says Lilly Dache, top-flight hat designer, in her recent autobiography. Above, against the inevitable "man in the background," are shown some of the de luxe Lilly's newest summer creations. The dramatic leg-horn cartwheel at top is trimmed with fishnet straw. At left, below, is a halo toque of pale green satin ribbons trimmed with green foliage and pink cabbage roses, shading from light to dark. The other hat is a white felt bonnet with facing, band and sash ends of black velvet. It is decorated with large white snowballs.

Blanche Hixson Rates High In News Writing

A former Manistique girl has broken into the news in a big way. She is Mrs. Wayne Smith, of Meriden, Conn., better known in Manistique as Blanche Hixson, daughter of the late V. I. Hixson, prominent Manistique attorney, and was born and raised in this community, the family home being the present residence of Dr. N. L. Lindquist.

Mrs. Smith is the wife of the publisher of the Meriden Record, and her name appears under the masthead of that publication, as associate editor and her work as writer of editorials, book reviews and theater reviews has made her the subject of numerous feature articles in eastern dailies.

The incentive for these writings was her recent visit to Washington, D. C., where she and her husband attended a convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. She was one of the two women who attended the gathering, the other being Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, of Houston, Texas, famed as the organizer of the WACS.

Her ability as an editorial writer was particularly stressed in these feature articles. Mrs. Smith advocates a Republican trend, but does not hesitate to speak out openly in favor of candidates of other political faiths when convinced that it is to the best interest of the public for her to do so. Her book reviews were also subject to much praise.

Mrs. Smith just "drifted" into her husband's business, although

Betty Jean's Party

Betty Jean Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Swanson, celebrated her twelfth birthday anniversary Wednesday afternoon by entertaining several of her friends at her home on Alger avenue.

Games were played during the afternoon with prizes being awarded to Janet Norton, Eileen Archey, Polly Gillingham and Inez Runyan. A delicious birthday supper was served later from a decorated table which was centered with a lighted pink and white birthday cake.

Betty received many lovely gifts from the following friends: Eileen Archey, Lois Garvin, Shirley Gardner, Inez Runyan, Dorothy Marks, Bonny Larson, Lorraine Edwards, Janet Norton, Beverly LaLonde, Polly Gillingham, Patricia Burns, Camille Larson, Patricia Fugere, Jean Nelson, and Helen and Shirley Swanson.

he tried to encourage the idea for years, says the New Haven Register. At Smith college, where she was graduated with the class of 1914, she entertained the idea of entering the law practice and following her father's footsteps in the profession. From Augusta Jordan's class in creative writing at college, she gleaned her first liking for writing, but never seriously considered newspaper work. Instead, she married and devoted most of her time, for over twenty years, to running a home, rearing an active family.

About ten years ago she began to review books and this eventually led to broader fields in the work.

In addition to her editorial duties she is an active club woman, supervises the running of her home and spends much time grandmothering her four granddaughters.

Ed Jackson Brings New Plane Here From Milwaukee

Ed Jackson, local undertaker, whose interest in aviation is well known, was awarded a private pilot's license. He and Don Peltier, instructor pilot, flew to Milwaukee where Jackson received the necessary test and was given his license. He then flew back with a new Aeronca Champion plane which is being added to the equipment of the Bow Jack Air Service, where pilots are being trained at the local airport.

Jackson's license entitles him to fly a plane and take up passengers, but limits these passengers to guests and not paid passengers.

The new plane is of the same size and capacity as the one which has been at the airport for the past several months.

Inconvenience Often Has A Good Purpose—

We will find, if we give the matter thought, that most of our unpleasant experiences are productive of good. Take, for instance the matter of clothes. They are hard to get—even if one has the money with which to buy them—so we are making our clothes do far beyond what would otherwise have been their span of life. Frequent trips to the cleaner and presser keeps them looking like new.

Please—During the present emergency, when you bring garments to us for service, please take along a hanger. For the present we are out and cannot get any more. We expect to get a supply pretty soon.

Escanaba Bears Will Play Crystal Falls Here This Afternoon

Eskymos Nosed Out By Sault In Track Meet

It required a recount to do it but the Eskymos' domination of the Manitowish invitation track and field meet was ended yesterday when Sault Ste. Marie's thinclads nosed out Escanaba, 53 to 52. Newberry placed third with 29½ points, followed by Manitowish with 22, Negaunee 17½, Garden 4 and Rapid River 2.

When the meet ended a quick summary of the totals showed the Eskymos winning the meet, 53 to 52, but a recheck later in the afternoon reversed the decision.

The Eskymos lost the meet in the final event of the day, the half mile relay, when the Soo won the event by a step from Escanaba, which placed second.

The most sparkling performance of the afternoon was registered by Mitchell, of Negaunee, who heaved the 12 pound shot 51 feet, 8 inches, far outdistancing the field in this event. It established a new record for the event, surpassing the former mark of 47 feet, 11 inches, which also was held by Mitchell.

The results of the meet follow: 100 yard dash—1 Shaw, Manitowish; 2 Smith, Newberry; 3 Peterson, Escanaba; 4 Parsley, Manitowish; 5 Aikens, Soo. Time, 11 seconds.

Brooklyn, May 11 (AP)—Pete Reiser poled a home run on the first ball offered by Hugh Mulcahy in the ninth inning today to clinch the Brooklyn Dodgers' uphill battle for a 12 to 11 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and the triumph moved the Dodgers into a virtual first place tie with the Cardinals.

The Dodgers used twenty-two players in the game which consumed three and a half hours and Manager Leo Durocher tied a National League record by employing seven pitchers.

The Dodgers bunched six of their fifteen hits in the fourth inning and scored five times. A double by Eddie Stanky in the eighth scored Pee Wee Reese with the tying tally.

Tigers Run Win Streak To 6 Games; Chicago Held To 2 Hits

Detroit, May 11 (AP)—Virgil (Fire) Trucks, with his hopping fast ball at its best since his Navy discharge last September, set down the Chicago White Sox 4 to 1 on two hits here today as the Detroit Tigers ran their winning streak to six games.

Barney McCosky's single drove in Eddie Lake, who had singled, and Eddie Mayo, who had doubled, for Detroit's first two runs in the third and Pat Mullin's homer after Anse Moore's single accounted for the other two in the sixth.

Wally Moses homered leading off the sixth for Chicago's first hit off Trucks and Ralph Hodgkin got the other blow, a single to center, in the ninth.

Only three other Chicago batsmen reached first—one on a walk, one hit by a pitched ball and the other on Jim Outlaw's miff of a pop fly.

Trucks fanned seven, including First Baseman Murrell Jones four times, in notching his third victory. Bill Dietrich, who gave eight of Detroit's nine hits before relieved in the eighth by Oral Grove, was the loser.

Three fast double plays by the White Sox kept the game close. Anse Moore bounced into one, Trucks into another and Paul Richards into the third. Outlaw was purposely passed twice to load the bases and double plays kept the Tigers from scoring both times.

One man was out in the Tiger third when three straight solid hits accounted for the first two Detroit runs. Lake lined a single to left, Mayo doubled off the right field screen and McCosky sent them both scampering home on his bullet single to center.

Mullin's sixth inning homer, his first of the season, was his third straight hit of a perfect day at the plate. Mayo and Moore each had two hits.

Hit and run: Although the game was played in 45-degree temperature a crowd of 16,443 paying customers shivered through it, along with 4,548 schoolboy guests who attended the Tigers' sixth annual high school baseball clinic in the morning.

Umpire Bill Summers twice stopped the game to remove pop bottles thrown into the outfield by fans. The Detroit outfield cut the Tigers' distance out of first place to seven games as the New York Yankees blanked the league-leading Boston Red Sox.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout, seeking his third victory, will pitch against the Sox in Sunday's single game Sunday Hurler Ted Lyons will work for Chicago.

Escanaba Country Club Plans Big Season; U. P. Golf Tournament Here

With the return of most of its members who served in the armed forces, officials of the Escanaba Country Club are shaping plans for one of the most active seasons in its history.

For the first time since 1935, the Upper Peninsula golf tournament, suspended during the war years, will be held here this season during the second week of August when the country club will be host to a large field of the peninsula's top notch golfers.

Harry Hogan, one of the club's leading golfers, won the last U. P. tournament held here and repeated in 1938 when the event was held at Sault Ste. Marie. Dr. Don Boyce, four times champion of the U. P., was runner-up in 1935.

Cotton Leonard, country club professional here for the past ten years, reports that the greens are in excellent shape and that considerable other improvements both to the grounds and the club house have been made. The continued cool weather has delayed early season play but 76 of the club's members have been participating in the weekly twilight league play which began April 30.

Special Sunday events are planned throughout the season in addition to the annual Fourth of July mixed foursome tournament, interclub matches with the Highland club here and with Marquette and Iron Mountain golfers, and the Labor Day flag tournament.

Officers of the club this season are: Juel Lee, president; James T. Jones, vice president; W. J. Laviolette, secretary-treasurer.

Club Officials: Greens committee: E. A. Wenner, chairman; Paul A. Wohlen, Dr. Dan Boyce, W. S. Skellenger; tournament committee: H. A. McPherson, chairman; A. W. Freeman, J. J. Poffenberger; entertainment committee: Dr. and Mrs. K. F. Harrington; house committee: R. A. O'Neill, chairman; J. W. Watson, F. W. Andrew, A. A. Lundgaard, J. H. Fawcett; caddy committee: J. A. Lemmer, chairman; G. A. Marcouiller, Jack Sullivan; handicapper committee: Harry Hogan, chairman; H. E. Johnson, Elmer Swanson Jr.

The club's board of governors is composed of C. J. Driscoll, E. G. Bennett, G. J. Cleary, Juel Lee, H. H. Shepeck, A. J. Perrin, Stack Smith, R. T. Starrin and James T. Jones.

Escanaba Country Club Plans Big Season; U. P. Golf Tournament Here

With the return of most of its members who served in the armed forces, officials of the Escanaba Country Club are shaping plans for one of the most active seasons in its history.

For the first time since 1935, the Upper Peninsula golf tournament, suspended during the war years, will be held here this season during the second week of August when the country club will be host to a large field of the peninsula's top notch golfers.

Harry Hogan, one of the club's leading golfers, won the last U. P. tournament held here and repeated in 1938 when the event was held at Sault Ste. Marie. Dr. Don Boyce, four times champion of the U. P., was runner-up in 1935.

Cotton Leonard, country club professional here for the past ten years, reports that the greens are in excellent shape and that considerable other improvements both to the grounds and the club house have been made. The continued cool weather has delayed early season play but 76 of the club's members have been participating in the weekly twilight league play which began April 30.

Special Sunday events are planned throughout the season in addition to the annual Fourth of July mixed foursome tournament, interclub matches with the Highland club here and with Marquette and Iron Mountain golfers, and the Labor Day flag tournament.

Officers of the club this season are: Juel Lee, president; James T. Jones, vice president; W. J. Laviolette, secretary-treasurer.

Club Officials: Greens committee: E. A. Wenner, chairman; Paul A. Wohlen, Dr. Dan Boyce, W. S. Skellenger; tournament committee: H. A. McPherson, chairman; A. W. Freeman, J. J. Poffenberger; entertainment committee: Dr. and Mrs. K. F. Harrington; house committee: R. A. O'Neill, chairman; J. W. Watson, F. W. Andrew, A. A. Lundgaard, J. H. Fawcett; caddy committee: J. A. Lemmer, chairman; G. A. Marcouiller, Jack Sullivan; handicapper committee: Harry Hogan, chairman; H. E. Johnson, Elmer Swanson Jr.

MAYOR TO TOSS OUT FIRST BALL

Booster Baseball Game Will Open NWM League Sked

The Escanaba Bears will open their Northern Wisconsin Michigan baseball league season against Crystal Falls this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the city diamond. Mayor Marvin Coon will throw out the first ball.

This is the Bears' booster game, moved back a week when rain washed out the scheduled opener with Channing here last Sunday. Tickets sold for the Channing game will be honored today at the Crystal Falls game.

The starting lineup for the Escanaba club will be selected by Manager John Schwalbach just before game time today, but it probably will shape up as follows: Gardner 3b, Deloria 1b, Morin 2b, Flath c, Derouin lf, Jungles ss, McGovern rf, Thorin cf, Beck or Fitzpatrick, pitching. Other bats who will be available for service and probably will get into the action include John Schwalbach, Jr., St. Martin, Maycunich, DeGrand, Smith, Dube and Ranguette. Tom Elgreet will umpire along with an umpire from Crystal Falls.

Other NWM league games scheduled today include Niagara at Negaunee, Channing at Iron River, Kingsford at Iron Mountain.

The Bears have been practicing nightly for the past three weeks and have looked sharp defensively but their hitting power is still an unknown quantity. The Crystal Falls team is reputed to be plenty potent at the plate.

The diamond was given its final grooming yesterday afternoon and is in excellent condition.

Teams Share Leads In Both Softball Leagues After First Week's Play

Results of the first week's play in the local softball leagues find three teams tied for the lead in the American league and two teams on top of the National loop.

Veterans of Foreign Wars, Paper Mill and White Birch won both their games in the fast league, while Lieung's Music store and Bethany were undefeated in the slower circuit.

In the longest game ever played at the lighted field a young, speedy St. Ann CYO team came from behind to nose out the Birds Eye, 10 to 9, on a home run by first baseman Fritz. The youngsters face their toughest test so far this season Thursday night when they meet a strong, experienced Paper Mill club under the lights.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Paper Mill meet Monday night at the lighted field in the feature game of the week. The Liberty Loans face the Buck Inn in the preliminary contest at 7:30.

Tuesday's tilt between Granada Gardens and People's Hotel promises to be interesting as the two teams are pretty evenly matched.

The best National league game will be played at No. 4 diamond Thursday night between Lieung's Music store and Bethany.

The schedule of games for this week is as follows:

Monday—Liberty Loans vs. Buck Inn at lighted field, 7:30; Brown, V. F. W. vs. Paper Mill at lighted field, 8:30; Roman, People's Hotel vs. Bird's Eye at No. 4, Roman; Hawks vs. St. Joe at Webster, Jensen.

Tuesday—People's Hotel vs. Granada Gardens at lighted field, 7:30; Roy, Bethany vs. K. C. at lighted field, 8:30; Brown, St. Ann vs. Larmays at No. 4, Roman; Hawks vs. Dagenais Grocery at Webster, Jensen.

Wednesday—V. F. W. vs. Bird's Eye at lighted field, 7:30; Roy, Lieung's Music store vs. Dagenais Grocery at lighted field, 8:30; Jensen, Buckeye Ann vs. Granada Gardens at No. 4, Roman; Liberty Loans vs. White Birch at Flat Rock, Brown.

Thursday—White Birch vs. Larmays at lighted field, 7:30; Roy, St. Ann vs. Paper Mill at lighted field, 8:30; Brown, St. Joe vs. K. C. at Webster, Jensen; Lieung's Music store vs. Bethany at No. 4, Roman.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The city bowling association apparently slipped a cog when it arranged its split of prize money for the city tournament, recently completed. The payoff for the high single game in the team event was $11.50 while the award for winning the team championship was only $11.25. Both prizes were won by the Lions club team, a fact that probably prevented some unkind words regarding the screwy split.

The bad distribution resulted from the fact that the percentages were not properly revised when the bowling rates, which were included in the entry fee, were raised from 60c for the series to 70c.

The distribution provided for 5 percent of the total entry fee to be whacked up for high single games in each of the three divisions of the tournament, the same percentage as last year. The split for total scores, however, was cut from 35 percent to 25 percent.

Tourist Advertising Is Bringing Results

Marquette—Of interest to persons who have invested in resort facilities in Northern Michigan is the report from the Lansing office of the Michigan Tourist Council showing a strong preference on the part of the midwest's vacation-minded public for information about the Upper Peninsula.

During April, the report reveals, a total of 22,868 inquiries were received. Of these, 8,200 were general in nature; of the remaining 14,668, more than one-third, or 4,785, expressed interest in spending their vacation in the Upper Peninsula.

As a result of the Michigan Tourist Council's $68,000 national advertising for 1946, only 25 percent of which has appeared in magazines to date, 14,343 inquiries have been received. Holiday magazine alone brought in 4,630, with National Geographic, Woman's Home Companion, Grade Teacher and the Saturday Evening Post following in order. Inquiries are being received in Lansing at the rate of 500 a day at present.

A fall advertising campaign, aimed at extension of the tourist season well into the fall months, is planned by the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau and other state resort groups. The national advertising campaign is aimed at keeping Michigan in the vanguard as an outstanding tourist state and to attract capital to come into the state and build resorts.
